Cutting Haulage Costs 54%
with
WESTERN DUMP CARS

You will admit that is considerable saving, but it has been duplicated or beaten by Western Dumps many times. This job was a 21-mile highway between Zanesville and Hebron, Ohio. Narrow gage track was laid along the route between two material yards at either terminal, and two-yard Western Dump Cars, four cars to the train, were pulled by dinkies. Cost per yard-mile, 13c—cost per yard-mile by team haulage, 28c., according to contractors' estimate.

It pays to use these cars on any job from the Panama Canal (900 used) down.

Let us submit figures on your next material-handling job.

Glad to give you full details. Write for Catalog.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

PROVIDE ACTUAL EXPERIENCE

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

Perfecting Wood-Block Paving

Long wear and satisfactory service are only possible with woodblock paving when it has been creosoted with the right oil.

The service record of Reilly Improved Creosote Oil as a paving block preservative has established its reputation with municipal engineers throughout the country. This known service efficiency has led conservative engineers to specify Reilly Improved Creosote Oil for this work.

It prevents "bleeding." Regardless of the hottest summer's sun, a Reilly Creosoted Paving is dry and clean.

It is rich in preservative properties, giving the wood longer life.

It provides a pavement that is "swell-proof" and "bulge-proof."

Volatility is reduced to a minimum. The oil clings to the cells of the wood.

There is no mystery about this. Reilly Improved Creosote Oil is simply pure creosote. It contains no "dope" or foreign substances. In consequence it is everlasting—it outlives the mechanical life of the block.

We will furnish you Perfect Wood Paving Blocks, ready to lay, or if you are equipped to treat timber ties, cross-arms, telephone and telegraph poles, mine props, etc., we are ready to supply any quantity of pure Reilly Improved Creosote Oil. Three big plants, insuring immediate shipment.

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

The Maney Scraper

It's a combination scraper and dump wagon which does away with the usual wheeler and dump man as it only requires one man to operate it. On railroad, highway, levee or other excavating and grading work it allows you to reduce the number of men and teams one-half and still move the same amount of dirt in the same time.

The saving is obvious. Write for complete details and price list today.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.
Two separate courses are offered, under the ollowing designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter takcn from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

Stop Hauling Water!

New York State Uses Novo

Mr. Barber, Supt. of State work in New York, finds that the Novo Type "U" Pumping Outfit is the one outfit that can be depended on for long distance high pressure pumping demanded on State Road work. This is the pump that was used on one of the model roads the State built at Clarence, New York. He says:

> "I received the pictures of the Novo Pumping Outfit and think they are fine, and I am thanking you for same.
> "This Novo Pumping Outfit is forcing water about two and one-half miles and supplying both of our big Koehring Mixers.
> "I hope this will help you in making sales of Novo Pumping Outfits. I think they are the best I ever saw."

Contractors have long felt an urgent need for a good reliable pump that would stand the unusual strain of long distance high pressure pumping and at the same time be light enough to be easily portable. For the first time this need is fully supplied in the

Novo Type "U" Pumping Outfit

This outfit exactly fills the requirements for such work as road construction where water many times must be forced two or three miles—for concrete mixers in side-walk construction—for well drilling and boiler supply in oil fields—for factory water supply. It does the work as well as a Triplex pump and costs half as much.

For lower pressure, shorter distance pumping we have two outfits—Fig. 1401 and the Novo Medium Pressure Pumping Outfit—which are especially well adapted.

No licensed engineer or fireman is required to run the NOVO—there is no coal to be moved or stolen. You can probably save enough on your present methods to pay for the NOVO during the first few months of its use.

The Reliable Novo Engine which operates the Type "U" Pump runs on kerosene, alcohol or distillate. The pumping outfit is furnished either truck or skid mounted.

Why not take the time right now to ask us how the Novo Type "U" will save you money on your present methods? We will gladly tell you if you will write us fully. Do it now while the matter is before you.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.
Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

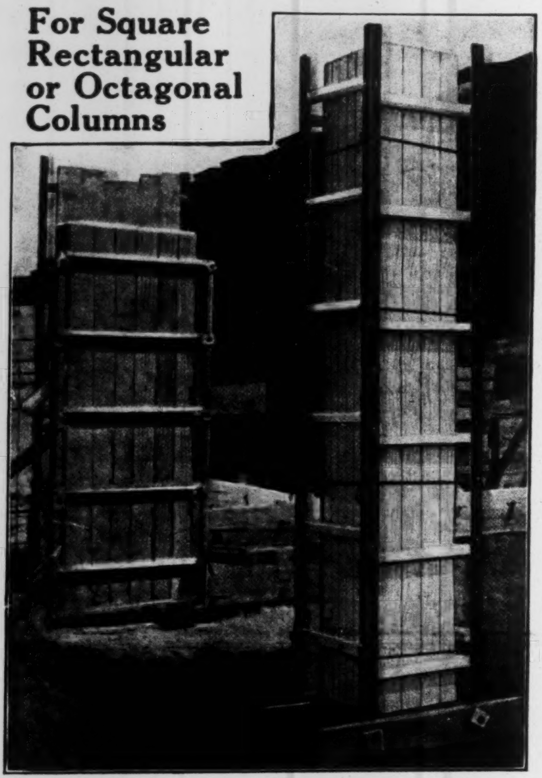
For Square Rectangular or Octagonal Columns



Mr. Contractor

When the Bidding's Close, Figure on

New England Column Clamps

Study this photograph—you can easily see why the New England is the simplest column clamp made.

The angles at the corner hold the forms straight and rigid, bringing window and door jambs true to line.

Clamps, straightens and squares the column at one operation.

Use over and over again

New England Clamps are not appliances that require a large outlay of money to finally reduce costs. THE FIRST COST IS LOW.

Mr. Sanford E. Thompson, the eminent Consulting Engineer of Boston in a report on these clamps, based on a special investigation of different types of forms, says:—"The cost of making up a complete column form is about 15% cheaper than with the bolted type. The cost of assembling a column form is about 20% cheaper than with the bolted type."

Contractors throughout the country may avail themselves of the right to use this clamp, of which we hold the exclusive patents, by payment of a small license fee.

Write today for complete details.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find copy of advertisement which we wish to have inserted once in ENGINEERING NEWS, next issue.

We are well pleased with the result of our advertisement for bids on street pavement which we had inserted twice recently; over thirty-five prospective bidders have already applied for plans and specifications, many more than we anticipated.

Yours very truly,

Sharon, Pa., April 12, 1915.

Engineering News, New York City,

Gentlemen:

Allow me to express the appreciation of Sharon Council for the efficiency of your publication in securing bids. It has proven the best advertising medium I have found after an experience with the leading publications and I can assure you that any additional ads to be placed during my term in office will find their way to you.

I might mention in the asking for bids on a road roller, concrete mixer and heating kettles, I received 84 replies with bids. The large number of bids was a big surprise to Council.

Respectfully yours,
(signed) Claude B. Lartz,
Secretary.

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.
Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

seconds, which would permit the unloading of a 40-yd. car in from one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Ordinarily, eight cars per day are found to be handled easily. The crushed-stone stockpile usually has in reserve about 25 carloads and the sand stockpile contains about half of that number of loads.

Bulk cement is discharged from the storage bin through a vertical chute into the mixing hopper. In so doing it passes through a sheet-steel measuring section with gates at the top and bottom. One of three $\frac{3}{16}$-in. holes in this section is used to gage the amount required for a given mix —that is, for the usual run or for finishing mortar. The measured cement is released through a hinged door at the bottom of the chute by the operator on the charging platform.

Those in charge estimate that it should be easily possible to turn out 60 batches, 1¼ yd. each, in an hour with this equipment, which would mean a possible total of over 500 cu.yd. in a day's run. The capacity of the storage bins is enough for 100 batches at least without renewal and the maximum rate of output would be easily obtainable by reason of the adequate facilities for unloading bulk cement and for obtaining sand and stone from the adjacent stockpiles or from supply cars on the siding.

Bulk Cement Saves Users' Money

Unloading and Measuring Bulk Cement

The Chicago & Alton Railroad found bulk cement so satisfactory in two season's experience in track elevation work that the chief engineer recommended it to Westinghouse-Church Kerr & Co. when they started work on the Chicago & Alton Shops at Bloomington, Ill.

Investigation showed that no special equipment or storage bins were required. Cement was shoveled directly from the car into a measuring box, pivoted and gated at one end for emptying into a wheelbarrow. The concrete foreman stated that the one man in the car and the one cement wheeler could have handled much more cement than was required for the 100 cubic yards per day of concrete used.

With cement in bulk no money is tied up in sacks nor are any sacks lost, stolen or damaged on the job. All labor connected with sacks is eliminated, namely, unloading from car to storage shed, wheeling from shed to mixer, untying and emptying sacks at the mixer platform, and counting, bundling, checking and shipping empty sacks. The net cost of bulk cement is 2 cents less per barrel than the net cost in cloth. These savings total from 7 cents to 12 cents per barrel of cement used.

While the installation of an elevator and gravity bin for handling bulk cement is not necessary, such special equipment will result in still greater economy.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

of instruction and practical work in designing and estimating the cost of structures of steel and reinforced concrete have been prepared by a well known Consulting Engineer,

FOR ENGINEERS

The personal attention of the engineer who prepared these courses is given to all the work submitted by each subscriber and therefore the membership is limited.

Two separate courses are offered, under the following designations,—

STRUCTURAL STEEL DESIGNING
REINFORCED CONCRETE ENGINEERING

These courses are not a duplication of the work given in technical colleges on these subjects, and are not a re-hash of matter taken from text books. This work differs from either because it gives the short concise practical methods actually used by engineers in such work, supplemented by labor saving tables and diagrams. They

and save years spent in mis-directed efforts which are a necessary result of trying to acquire experience without the direct aid and assistance of an engineer properly experienced in such work.

Austin Improved Cube Mixer

Tests on completed work—big projects like the Detroit River Tunnels and the Panama Canal—have shown that AUSTIN-Mixed Concrete develops great strength and hardness. Engineers attribute this result to the thorough mixing attained by the AUSTIN CUBE MIXER.

The Austin turns out three batches of this extra-dense, extra-waterproof extra-strong concrete to any other mixer's two batches.

Pulling Lackawanna Steel Sheet Piling by means of an inverted steam hammer Contractors who figure upon reusing Lackawanna Steel Sheet Piling for a number of temporary installations before a final permanent installation or selling as scrap, can pull the driven piling sections by various practical methods.

A recent scheme for utilizing an inverted steam hammer for pulling is shown in the accompanying illustrations. This idea, used by N. R. Melvin, Supt., McMullen & Hoff, greatly reduced pulling costs on deep driven Lackawanna Sheet Piling in Lexington Avenue Subway work, New York City.

A steel strap about 4 in. wide was passed entirely around the hammer over the anvil blocks and fitted with a simple shackle at the upper end (lower end in pulling). The $3\frac{1}{2}$-in. space on each side of the strap was occupied by other straps to provide attachment to the derrick. In pulling, the inverted hammer took hold of the pile by means of a shackle and the derrick was then caused to pull upward. This pulled the center or shackle strap down upon the anvil block, and the hammer was started working. The larger picture shows how the shackle is attached to special plates which are bolted to the lower half of a spliced piling section, utilizing the splice plate holes for the bolts.

The hammer used, 11x11x56-inch McKiernan-Terry, weighs 1500 pounds, has 7-inch cylinder bore and stroke, and is fitted with a 200-pound ram. Its normal speed is 300 strokes per minute.

On this job piles penetrating 26 feet in clay, sand and gravel ("Ordinary hard pulling") were withdrawn in from 2 to 10 minutes each.

Other desirable pulling methods and devices are illustrated and described in our new reference book "Lackawanna Steel Sheet Piling," a copy of which will be sent on application to engineers who supervise piling work.

Data on many pulling jobs enables us to advise specifically under any given conditions and our steel sheet piling engineers are always ready to cooperate with present or prospective customers.

"How I Have Been Benefited By the Advertising in Engineering News"

By E. E. THUM, C. E.

now connected with the University of Cincinnati; formerly Engineer, Anaconda Copper Mining Co.; Chief of Party, Tooeh Valley Ry.; Chief Engineer, North American Construction Co. and Engineer in Charge of Construction on various works etc.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 26, 1915.

The Business Manager, Engineering News,
Hill Bldg., New York.

Dear Sir:

"How have I been benefited by the advertising in Engineering News?"

"How have I not been benefited" would be an easier question to answer. Ever since my freshman year in college I have used the advertising as I have used my education or the "News"—something of value to be absorbed now and stored away for some future demand. The Engineering News has been absolutely invaluable to me:—the text sandwiched in between the ads is like the theory within the practice.

My own enthusiasm based on actual use, and backed by the appeal of their advertising enabled me, early in my professional life, to convince the chief that the best transits (Berger) were none too good for us boys "out at the front."

When in charge of concrete work the ("Universal") advertising and the trade literature they called to my attention encouraged me to adopt the then unusual practice of continuing operations through the winter. This, together with some revisions in the wall designs I was able to make from a "hunch" I got from another ad (Blaw) enabled me to finish a big foundation job away ahead of schedule, and earned me the best promotion I ever got.

As superintendent of construction rebuilding a large manufacturing plant, I had to work under a Chief Engineer of the old school—"guy derrick" type. I wanted some (Bronwhoist) locomotive cranes, but was turned down. Finally I urged their necessity to the Superintendent. "What could you do with it?" he asked. "What can I do with it? It will excavate concrete; dismantle old plant; unload, sort and erect building, cranes and machinery." The management was finally convinced by their advertising showing the adaptability of their crane, and we got them. In six months we had to work nights to take care of odd jobs for the operating departments. The derricks and ball gang went to the scrap yards.

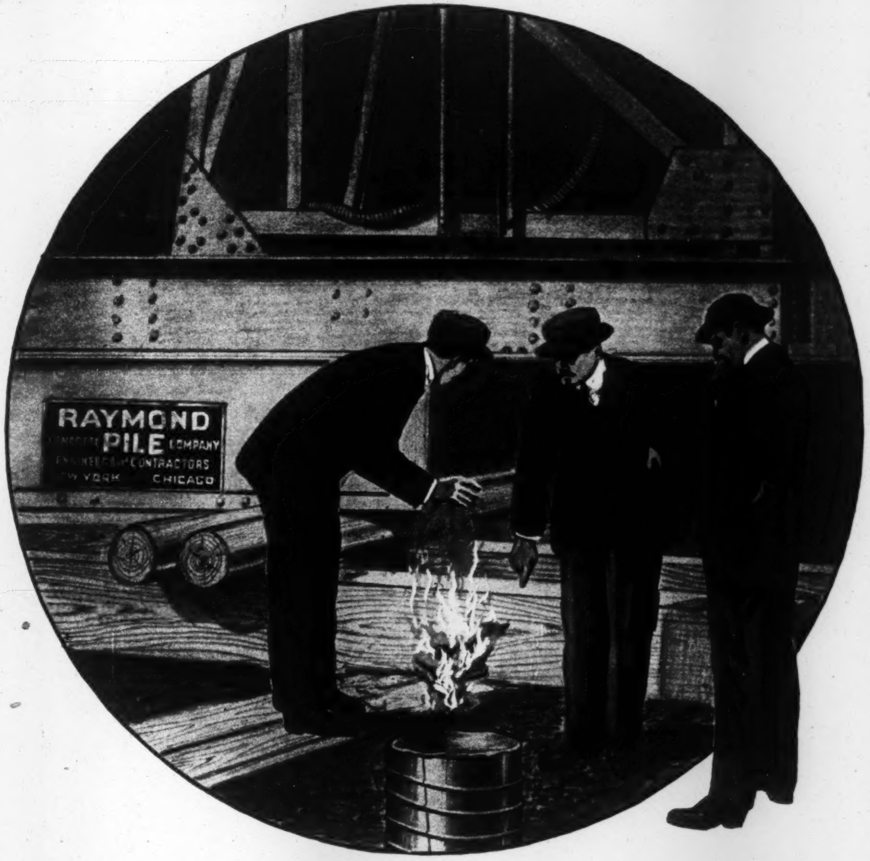
There are so many incidents constantly occurring that it is hard to choose among them. An advertisement ("Golden-Anderson") of altitude valves showed me how to design a beautifully simple pipe layout and control for our fire and sprinkler system tanks.

We tested several types of patent roofings in service—one (Johns-Manville Asbestos) stood our conditions best, as we suspected it would from their advertising matter.

In arguing with the manager about the advisability of standardizing concrete forms, the only text and illustrations I found at all convincing to him were those I clipped from the ads:— and so on indefinitely.

"How have I been benefited by the advertising in Engineering News?" Ask me rather, "How have I been benefited by my education?"—the first is a part of the second. Every day I am able to suggest materials and methods found by turning over the advertising and reading pages of the "Engineering News" each week, recognizing old friends and making new acquaintances.

Very sincerely,
E. E. Thum



Making Sure The Shell Is O.K.

Making Sure! That's it exactly. Not guessing, not trusting to luck, but making absolutely sure that the form in the ground is O.K.

With Raymond Made-In-Place Concrete Piles a steel core is driven to resistance, collapsed and withdrawn leaving a steel-lined hole in the ground.

To make sure that the enormous ground pressure is not squeezing the reinforced steel form, in the hole, out of shape, we light a piece of paper and drop it, blazing, to the bottom of the hole.

In this way we assure ourselves and everybody else on the job that each Raymond Shell is doing what we require of it—keeping back the ground pressure, excluding water and maintaining the hole to its predetermined shape.

With other methods of placing made-in-place concrete piles, no inspection, whatever, of the hole is possible.

On concrete piling problems take our advice and make sure.

Three Distinct Functions of

The CEMENT - GUN

Sandblasting Guniting Grouting

To permanently repair a piece of defective concrete or rubble masonry.

First:

Use the Cement-Gun as a sand blast for removing all foreign substances and to insure a clean surface for bonding purposes. Simply a change of nozzle will convert the Cement-Gun into a sand blast.

Second:

Drive a few grouting pipes into the cracks at convenient intervals, sealing around them with Gunite, thus affording the means of reaching the interior fissures and filling the exterior cracks.

Third:

After Gunite has set, remove nozzle, fill Cement-Gun with neat cement grout, connect delivery hose to grouting pipes and force grout into interior crevices until they have been completely filled up.

No matter how hopelessly the work may be damaged the Cement-Gun may save your structure.

Send us particulars and let us submit information as to how our method may be applied to your problem.

Pressed Steel Plates for Tunnel Lining—

"Hydraulic" Pressed Steel Tunnel Liner Plates are much lighter than fabricated plate and angle liners, and they can be put into place with much less labor.

Stamped out by a steel die, they all come absolute duplicates and fit without warping, hammering or forcing into place.

Being light in weight, they reduce freight and haulage charges to a minimum.

The men carry them in stacks instead of one at a time.

Big money-savers for any contractor.

We are prepared to make all styles and sizes to suit all conditions, and shall be glad to have you send us your blueprints.

On the Trail of a Good Truck

Three Years of Mountain Climbing Has No Effect on a White Truck

OVER the Orange Mountains a 3-ton White Truck daily hauls and delivers building material for the John O'Rourke Company of West Orange, N. J. It has been doing this for three years—doing it satisfactorily and economically.

"O'Rourke's Truck" is known as "a good mountain truck" for miles around the home town of Thomas A. Edison. Contractor Wiseman learned this while looking over the recently completed Edison plant. Wiseman expressed a desire to get on the trail of the truck.

"The O'Rourke Company's yard is at Park Avenue and Erie R. R. only a few blocks away. Why not see the truck at the yards?" suggested his informant.

Wiseman reached the yard in time to see it loading up with bags of cement. He asked at the office about the truck's record as a mountain climber.

"We use it on all kinds of grades in hauling to construction jobs over the Orange Mountains," said Edward C. Balch, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer of the O'Rourke Company. "For three years it has given us satisfactory service and today it seems as good as ever."

Wiseman asked if the truck consumed much fuel and Mr. Balch replied that it was extremely economical.

To convince the contractor that this was true he showed his records of fuel consumption. The average was 5¼ gallons daily. "The White Truck has lived up to expectations and if we were in the market for another truck we would buy another White Truck," said Mr. Balch.

"More convincing than anything else that White Trucks are good trucks is the fact that owners repeat when they go to market for another truck," commented contractor Wiseman.

Let the fact that your brother contractors buy another and another after purchasing their first White Truck convince you. If the truck didn't save them money would they "repeat?" Get on the trail of a good truck by writing now for our latest catalogs.

Concrete Pavement for Suburban Street

HIGHLAND PARK IS ON THE MAP AGAIN

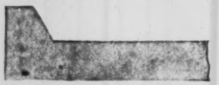
Highland Park, a wealthy suburb of Chicago, sought to replace its unsatisfactory macadam section of Sheridan Road—the interstate highway extending from Lincoln Park, Chicago, to Milwaukee, Wis.—with a suitable pavement that would be open to all kinds of traffic the year around. Concrete was chosen as the material which most nearly met all the requirements of permanence, moderate first cost, low maintenance charges, non-slipperiness, and varied traffic.

As shown in the accompanying diagram, the curb was built integral with the pavement. This economical method of curb construction lends itself readily to pavements built of concrete throughout.



Curb Integral With Pavement

Highland Park officials and citizens were so well pleased with their new pavement that they celebrated its opening with appropriate dedicatory exercises. The sign stretched across the street reading "Highland Park is on the Map Again" is indicative of the importance the community attached to this piece of work.

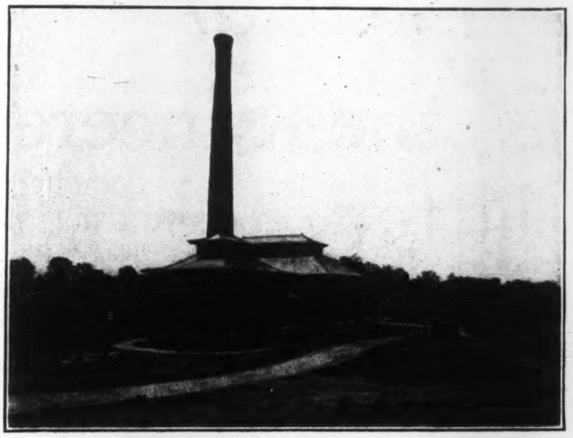
The Economical Operation of Sewage Pumps guided by VENTURI METERS



Main Sewage Pumping Station, Columbus, O.

Venturi Meter Tube being installed in main sewage discharge line, Columbus, Ohio.

THE MODEL sewage disposal plant at Columbus, Ohio, lifts by motor driven centrifugal pumps between forty and fifty million gallons of sewage daily against a head of forty feet.

The 40″ x 20″ Venturi Meter Tube installed in the discharge main and connected with a Type M Indicator-Recorder mounted inside of the pumping station records all variations in the rate of pumpage and shows by the Indicator dial hand the instant that rate of pumpage falls below the normal, due to clogging of the pumps through accumulated debris. It also indicates when the pump catches its suction.

By observing the indicator dial the engineer is able to avoid needless power loss, for the dial shows when it is necessary to blow back the pumps and when they should be stopped for cleaning and inspection.

The fact that the Venturi Meter enables the operating force to maintain the sewage plant at its best efficiency was commented upon by a member of the Ohio State Board of Health who remarked that the Board advocates such a device in connection with every sewage plant as it helps to save lives as well as money.

Did you read the interesting descriptions of Venturi Meter Sewage Installations at Baltimore, Toronto, Salem, etc., included in our new Bulletin No. 142-N, containing 52 reprints of Venturi Engineering News? If not, send for your copy now.

Venturi Meter Type M Indicator-Recorder.

Venturi Meters are in successful operation in water works, sewage disposal plants, hydro-electric plants, irrigation developments, steam power and refrigerating plants, gas works and in practically every important industrial undertaking.

New Bulletin No. 84-N gives full description. May we mail you a copy?

"At the Panama-Pacific Exposition we invite you to see the Venturi Meter in operation at the Pelton Water Wheel Company's Exhibit, Palace of Machinery."

The Worm That Turned or

Imitation is the Sincerest Flattery

CHAPTER ONE

The first experimental Pierce-Arrow motor truck was sent out for road tests in the spring of 1906. Four years of constant test and experiment convinced the Pierce-Arrow engineers that chain drive was unsuitable and inefficient for motor trucks. None of these experimental models, therefore, was ever offered for sale.

CHAPTER TWO

The Pierce-Arrow engineers then put a worm-gear truck in competition with their experimental chain-driven models. The result was so overwhelmingly in favor of the worm gear that this construction was adopted as standard for Pierce-Arrow motor trucks, and the experimental chain-driven models were scrapped.

CHAPTER THREE

The first Pierce-Arrow motor truck was sold in June, 1911, and this original introduction of the worm-gear drive in America made a sensation in the motor truck field. The construction was attacked on all sides by rival manufacturers and denounced as impracticable and inefficient.

CHAPTER FOUR

Pierce-Arrow worm-gear motor trucks soon began to make good in all kinds of service and under the most exacting conditions. The worm-gear drive was proved to be silent, efficient and economical. In 1912 rival manufacturers began to buy Pierce-Arrow trucks and study the worm-gear constructions.

CHAPTER FIVE

The first hastily constructed imitations of Pierce-Arrow worm-gear drive appeared on the market in 1913, and in 1914 a number of leading manufacturers adopted the worm gear for their entire line of trucks. Service records of Pierce-Arrow trucks had shown by this time that there was no perceptible wear in the worm gear after running over 100,000 miles. More and more repeat orders were received as a result of the favorable showing made by these pioneer worm-gear trucks.

CHAPTER SIX

The trend now became increasingly strong toward worm-gear drive. A general review of the motor truck shows of 1915 indicated that out of 213 accredited makers of gasolene commercial vehicles 25% were already using worm gear while many more were preparing to adopt it next year. Nearly 2,000 Pierce-Arrow worm-gear trucks in successful operation throughout the country now bear witness to the correctness of Pierce-Arrow design and constructions.

(To be continued in 1916)

Pioneers in Worm-Gear Drive

Prospective purchasers will find in this little sketch of recent motor truck history about as strong an argument as we can offer in favor of the Pierce-Arrow truck. If recent developments have convinced you that the worm gear is the most efficient and economical drive for motor trucks, it will surely be wise to purchase a truck which has long since passed the experimental stage and now embodies the results of four and one-half years actual working experience in many different kinds of service. Such a motor truck is the Pierce-Arrow—built by the pioneers in worm-gear drive in this country. We shall be glad to send to anyone interested a catalogue of Motor Trucks showing numerous body-types for 2-ton and 5-ton chassis.

Kreolite Lug Wood Blocks

"The Paving that's Saving"

These Compressible Lugs take up all the Expansion

The Lugs on Kreolite Lug Wood Blocks are the improvement that has eliminated the only objections that have ever been made against wood block pavements, namely, bulging and slipperiness.

When the blocks expand the Lugs compress, preventing any bulging of the pavement.

The space provided by the Lugs gives a good foothold for horses, absolutely preventing any slipperiness.

Kreolite Lug Wood Block Pavements are being laid on grades up to 6% by both private and public corporations, also by street railway companies for paving between the rails.

A Lug Wood Block Pavement presents a smooth, even surface and one that will remain so for years to come.

Interesting views and specifications on request.

Not the Cheapest Drum

A stock metal stamped drum would be cheaper.

—but the Koehring drum heads are cast from special close grained metal, high in carbon. That's why it endures the cutting, grinding wear of stone, cement and sand.

Gear runways are cast integrally of same material, which is why they do not wear untrue. The center barrel is heavy special boiler plate, also high in carbon. The two joints are machined to absolute water-tightness.

Either set of gears will drive drum, independently of companion set.

Capacities:

Pavers: 6, 11, 18, 22 cu.ft.

Side Loaders: 4, 7, 10, 12, 15, 20, 24, 30, 44 cu.ft.

Hot Mixers: 10, 18, 20 cu.ft.

Every other part of the Koehring is built, not the cheapest way, but the best way, and that's the reason for Koehring reliability, and low maintenance—why the Koehring is cheapest in the end.

Two Dandy Profit Boosters

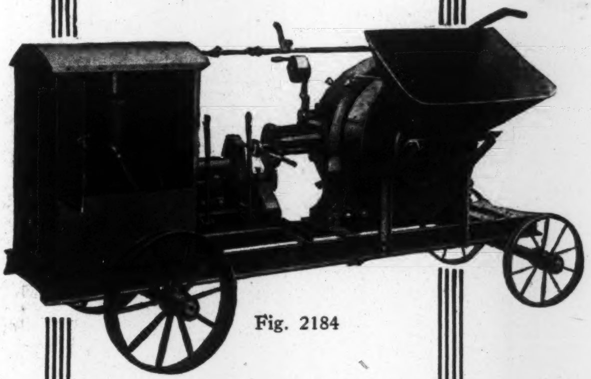

Fig. 2184

Three batches at once with the three-foot Smith Mixerette, hoist rig.

Bing! That bucket of concrete was sure travelling some—100 feet per minute. And it could have gone to the top of that 400 foot building just as well as to the 2nd floor.

Yes, sir, it certainly is a dandy little hoist. Listen now—a 300 lb. bucket of concrete, 400 feet into the air, at 100 feet per minute. And the best of it is that this hoist is mounted on your mixer truck between the engine and drum where the hoisting cable can't possibly rub or fray.

And while the hoist is handling one batch the drum is mixing another, for the engine is powerful enough to take care of both at once. Take a look into the drum. No, it won't splash. The deep, scoop-like blades keep the batch in the center where it is thoroughly mixed.

Now throw in that chute. Notice! It goes two-thirds of the way across the drum and its steep angle discharges the entire batch in 15 seconds.

Now for the third batch. You could shovel into that gated batch hopper all day and not get a kink in your back. Why the loading level is only 3 ft. 10¼ in. above the ground.

Right this minute, before you forget it, send for Mixerette Hoist Rig Booklet No. 147-G.

Or, if you don't need the hoist and simply want a real, first class three-foot mixer, send for Mixerette Booklet No. 110-G.

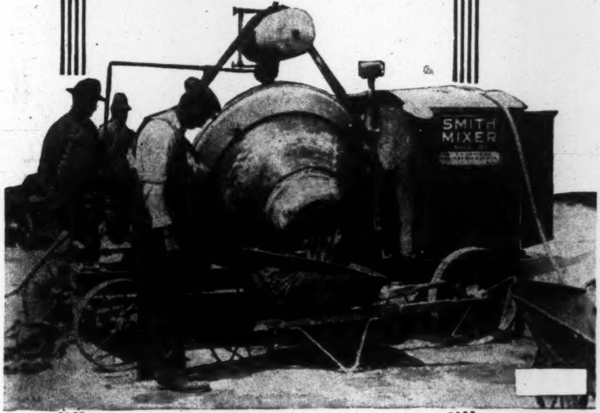

Fig. 3141

The four-foot Smith Mascot Mixer has a duo-cone drum and tilting discharge

The four-foot Smith Mascot is a sure profit booster. It retains the same double cone drum and tilting discharge that earned such a wonderful reputation for the Big Smith Mixer on hundreds of famous projects.

And for a finishing touch the Mascot embodies one of the greatest ideas of the past ten years of mixer development—a dust-proof casing encircling the drum and absolutely protecting the big gear ring and driving pinion.

The above features would in themselves be enough to make the Mascot a sure winner but there are more. To get all the Big Ideas that make up a Smith Mascot you want to send for the catalog. Among other things it will tell you all about the rapid-fire loader that gives you maximum capacity.

This gear-driven loader has no cables, sheaves or overhead frame—there is none of that twisting, jerking motion common to the pivot type loader. On the contrary the skip lifts easily and rapidly and with its steep angle empties the batch into the drum without any loss of time or spilling of materials.

You can always depend on the all-steel Smith Mascot. It is built for fast, continuous work. It will grind out concrete from morning to night, day after day, week after week. And after five seasons use you still have a splendid machine. A little overhauling will easily put it in shape for another seasons run and after that another With good care a Smith Mascot will pay for itself many times over.

Get the whole story by sending for Smith Mascot Folder No. 80-G.

And a Portable Crushing Rig

Perhaps you have hauled stone ten miles into the country. It's expensive business and quite unnecessary when the Telsmith "Seven-Spot" will crush 4 tons of field stone or bank gravel per hour, at a figure way under one dollar per yard for everything—haulage, gasoline, labor, depreciation, etc. The No. 7 rig is complete—a 7 x 10 jaw crusher, 12 H.P. twin cylinder gas engine, elevator, screen and bin. The crusher is a strong little brute, about 90 per cent. cast steel, with reversible manganese steel die plates. The engine has a big margin of surplus power. The whole outfit weighs well under 9000 lbs. Any mechanic can run it. Put a "Seven-Spot" on your next country job and save the long haul. Get our "Seven-Spot" Bulletin No. 151-G.

PERFORMANCE TALKS

Where Dust Is Death to Product

Wood was deliberately turned down as a floor material for the new building of The Electro-Dental Manufacturing Company in Philadelphia.

Master Builders Method was specified for wearproof, dustproof and waterproof concrete floors throughout.

Five floors like this have been in satisfactory service for two years. Workmen find them comfortable. They are pleasing in appearance. They are sanitary. They are permanent and they meet the main requirement absolutely in being dustproof. In a fireproof building they too, are fireproof. In a modern building where efficiency and economy are the ideals, they are efficient and economical.

If you are not sure that the day of ordinary concrete floors is past, examine these floors, or get a report on them from the owners. Hundreds of other installations are shown in the Second Edition of the "Master Builders Primer"—sent free

Cross bars are not an essential part of the joint of

The Armco Iron Flume

(Lennon Type)

In the smaller sizes they are omitted altogether, and in the larger they need not be more than one-half or two-thirds as numerous as in other types. It is not necessary for the rods to pass through the cross-bars. This saves considerable time in erecting, and enables the placing of the cross-bars after the flume is assembled.

Armco (American Ingot) Iron is the acknowledged standard for durability in exposed metal work.

ENGINEERS

In writing specifications for asphalt it is important to specify requirements that will insure high grade asphalt being used. The principal and most essential requirements are high ductility, low susceptibility to extremes of temperature, low volatilization loss, and that at least 99% of all the bitumen present shall be soluble in carbon-tetrachloride.

AZTEC ASPHALT

embodies all these requisite merits, moreover it is uniform—it has the advantage of being produced by men who have had a lifetime experience and study in the production of asphalt.

Aztec asphalt IS NOT one of the minor by-products of a large oil refinery. It is a straight natural asphalt refined from Mexican Maltha, and is not a blend of odds and ends of various light asphaltic oils and semi-asphaltic oils, the residue of the distillation of products from various oil fields. Our chief business is the production of asphalt. It is our aim to produce the best asphalt possible for all purposes and results speak for themselves.

Let us send you a model form of asphalt specifications for various types of asphalt pavement.

Is Your Macadam Road a Dust Bin?—Renovate It!

Have you a macadam road which motor traffic converts into a dust bin in dry weather?

There is a way to renovate that road—a way other country and rural districts are following—use our and transform a disagreeable roadway into a serviceable one.

METHOD: The road should be swept clean, depression and ruts filled up, then Resurfacing Asphalt applied at the rate of one-half gallon per square yard. Then cover with sand or stone screenings and roll thoroughly.

Standard Resurfacing Asphalt, like all our other grades of binders and paving asphalts is refined directly from MEXICAN asphaltic petroleum, and does not contain any slippery lubricating element. It builds up on the top of the road metal a firm, resilient, dustless, durable "traffic mat."

Others are doing this and making good roads out of bad at small cost. Why shouldn't you? Write for fuller details.

The AUSTIN PAVER with Multi-Pedal Traction.

SAVE TIME!

Your profits from paving work will depend more upon your method of employing this valuable element than upon any other factor.

Consider the possible saving of five seconds on each half-yard batch in a ten-hour run. It means an additional 100 square yards of six-inch pavement for the day. Figured at $1.25 per square yard, the contractor gains $125 in his estimate for the day.

Now, these valuable five seconds are saved by the

because the bucket holds the entire batch. Another five seconds are saved by the rapid operation of the wide-loading skip.

Besides these features, the Austin Paver has the cube principle of mixing, which insures thoroughness and speed, and the blue annealed high-carbon steel drum, which is typical of its durability and wearing qualities.

CLAM SHELL
BUCKETS

THE Hayward Class "E" Clam Shell Bucket is a most efficient machine for digging such materials as crushed stone, broken slag, gravel, packed sand, etc., and may be equipped with steel teeth for excavating in hard or rock filled soil.

The illustration below is one of four machines used for changing the grade on the Long Island Railroad, East New York The Bucket is a Hayward Class "E" with Ore Bowl equipped with teeth. This type of bucket is particularly serviceable when the material to be dug contains a large percentage of gravel or boulders.

There are Hayward Buckets for digging and rehandling under all conditions. Tell us your particular problem and we will make recommendations and send you catalogues.

It Walks to Work and Wades Right Through It

The Walking Traction of the Monighan Drag Line Excavator

Has effected savings of 25 to 50% in the cost of excavation by the ease and rapidity of handling it gives to the machine.

We are in a position to show you the machines that have made these records and to fully substantiate the records. The simple device shown below walks the machine to work over any soft ground—moves it to a new setting in 30 seconds and makes possible the use of a shorter boom and bigger bucket.

Just watch one machine on the job—we'll tell you the nearest.

RUST EATS METAL

RED LEAD PROTECTS IT

THIS rust-riddled girder is almost worthless even to the junk man.

No unprotected metal is rust-proof. No unprotected metal is safe from such a destructive attack as this photograph shows.

Red lead keeps out rust and keeps the painted units sound and safe. The use of this superior protective paint is insurance against dollar-eating rust holes. The development of

Dutch Boy Red Lead in Oil

(pure red lead in paste form) makes it simple and convenient to use this standard rust preventive under any and all conditions. Dutch Boy Red Lead in Oil retains the admirable protective qualities of dry red lead, and adds to them the greater utility of a paste pigment. Objection No. 2

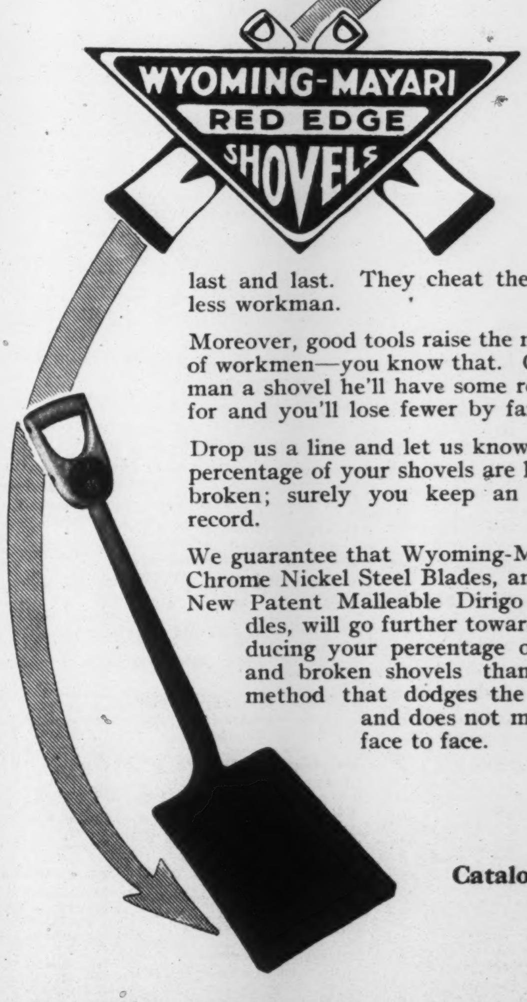
ANOTHER objection to good shovels is, "Too many shovels are carelessly lost or broken."

There's something in this—but not much. Why point your efforts down hill to suit careless workmen? Good business sense says that it's better to buy the right shovels and insist on greater care of them.

If you buy Wyoming-Mayari Red Edge Shovels you will have to issue less than half the number—they last and last and last. They cheat the careless workman.



Moreover, good tools raise the morale of workmen—you know that. Give a man a shovel he'll have some respect for and you'll lose fewer by far.

Drop us a line and let us know what percentage of your shovels are lost or broken; surely you keep an exact record.

We guarantee that Wyoming-Mayari Chrome Nickel Steel Blades, and our New Patent Malleable Dirigo Handles, will go further towards reducing your percentage of lost and broken shovels than any method that dodges the issue and does not meet it face to face.

INTERLOCKING
METAL HOSE

The Quick Way with Liquids

Whether it's oil, gasoline, tar, paint, or even plain hot water, you can handle it most quickly and most economically with PENFLEX Metal Hose.

It's cheaper than rubber hose, because not affected by the liquids and not subject to rotting. You don't lose the value of your money if the hose is not used at once for time has no effect on PENFLEX.

PENFLEX High Pressure Hose stands pressures up to 300 lbs. It is used by contractors for carrying air to drills, hammers and riveters; by mills and power plants for blowing out boilers; and wherever a flexible connection or expansion joint is needed in a pressure line.

Ask for fuller information.

Penflex is the original flexible metal hose. We are the originators of the interlocking joint metal hose.

Combining Reliability with Economy in a Waterworks Installation

The City of Roanoke, Virginia, is furnished water by the Vinton-Roanoke Water Co., which receives the supply partly by a pipe line from storage in the mountains, and partly from a large spring in the side of a hill near the city.

To replace a steam pump at the spring, an "American" No. 2½, Type KMD, 2-stage, split shell, enclosed impeller, bronze fitted centrifugal pump was installed, designed to deliver 210 gallons per minute, or 3,000,000 gallans a day, against a total head of 230 feet. This pump is driven by a 25 H.P., 3 phase, 60 cycle, 220 volt, 1850 R.P.M., squirrel cage motor, and is primed by automatic primer.

The accompanying illustrations show exterior and interior views of the pump house, also a small concrete house containing a reducing valve, which reduces to 60 lbs. the pressure from the mountain supply, obtained about 600 feet above the pumping station and five miles distant. This valve is about 90 feet above the pumping station, and the pump, therefore, has to deliver against a pressure ranging from 95 to 110 lbs., with varying capacity, depending upon the demand of the system.

There is a float switch on the spring, which automatically stops the pump when the water is lowered to the end of the suction pipe and starts it again when the water again rises.

This pump has been in continuous 24 hours per day use since May 23, 1914, and the power cost has not varied over $2.00 above or below $216 per month in any month.

The pumping station is locked at all times except when inspected once a day. It is so much more economical than the steam plant, that the old plant is maintained only as an auxiliary.

This is only an example of the economy and reliability of "American" Centrifugal Pumps in water works installations.

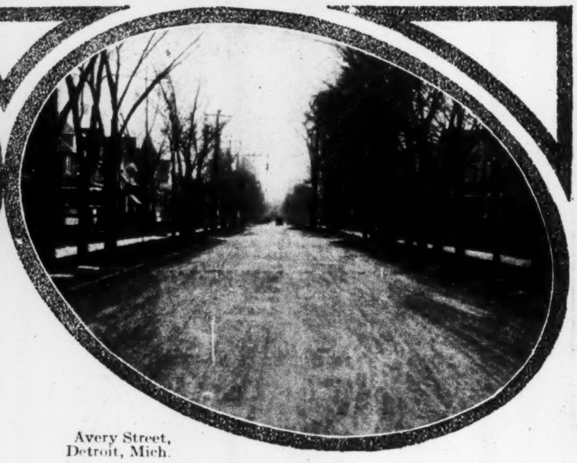
Wood Block Pavement

West Avenue,
South Norwalk, Conn.



Avery Street,
Detroit, Mich.

Pleasing the property owners—

WHERE new pavements are to be built by assessment on the abutting property the attitude of the property owners has an important bearing on the selection of the type of pavement to be used.

Although Wood Block pavement is by no means the cheapest in its initial cost, it has proved many times to be the pavement on which the property owners most readily agree.

Property owners value its quietness under traffic, which improves the value of their land. This is true both of office building districts, such as lower New York, and in residential streets. They like Wood Block pavement also because they know that it will last longer than any other pavement—even granite.

Mr. J. H. Weinburger, the engineer in charge of the pavements of Queens Borough, New York City, says that the Wood Block pavements in his borough "have been so uniformly satisfactory that in many instances property owners are petitioning that Creosoted Wood Block be used for streets of both heavy and light traffic."

Ever since the first Wood Block pavement was laid in New York, in 1903, there has been a steadily increasing demand for it all over the city. The first strip of Wood Block pavement on Warren Street brought in a stream of petitions from nearby property owners for the extension of "the silent pavement." It is easy to believe that such pressure, coming from the people who bear the cost, will eventually bring New York to a parity with London, which has 300 miles of wood pavement, and Paris, which has 400 miles.
